

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image processing apparatus for processing a photographed image of an object extracts an object region from the photographed image and determines a 5 region from which a feature value of the photographed image is extracted on the basis of a pixel value on a contour in the extracted object region.